Despite apex court order, busts/statues of departed eminent personalities installed on footpaths continue to displace pedestrians across Bengaluru

A FITTING TRIBUTE?

It's a tradition now to install statues or busts of departed souls who contributed for the betterment of society and culture. However, at times, the location selected for the installation for this sort of tribute to the departed leaders or prominent personalities has been debatable.

There are many such statues/busts installed on footpaths at various locations in Bengaluru. The statues/busts include that of politicians, actors or even gods and goddesses. In fact, there is a Supreme Court judgment banning installation of statues and construction of temples on public roads; but followers and fans of the departed souls continue to violate this norm.

For instance, a podium for the late Sahasa Simha Vishnuvardhan's bust was constructed on the footpath, near a petrol pump at Sri Balagangadharanatha Swamiji Circle on Magadi Road. Many of us are aware of Vishnuvardhan's

Around 10:30 am on Tuesday, reinforcement work was being carried out with staging and guy wire supports, at Pier 218, Package 1 of Phase 2B project of Metro, near Hennur. One of the guy wires gave way resulting in swaying and falling of a pillar along the KR Puram-Hebbal Main carriageway near HBR Layout.

The pillar fell on a passer-by family of four travelling on a two-wheeler. Out of the four, the mother and child were brought to the hospital but succumbed to injuries.

"The exact cause of the accident, and the contractor concerned, should be probed; I have instructed them to file a case against those held responsible. Upset tummy bothering kid? Junk all junk food

With children back to school, healthy eating habits are often taking a backseat; doctors report rise in cases of diarrhoea among young ones

With the increase in consumption of food from outside after the lifting of covid restrictions in the past years, the number of cases of people getting infected with diarrhoea has increased. According to doctors, the increase is being seen especially in children, who were confined indoors and eating healthy food, but are back to eating junk food.

Most of the hospitals are seeing a 20 per cent rise in the cases of diarrhoea on an everyday basis. The patients visiting the Out Patient Department (OPD) often complain of diarrhoea, accompanied by nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain and even weight loss, say experts.

Dr NG Kanchan, Physician and Diabetologist, Specialist Hospital, Bangalore said, "There has been an increase in cases of admission due to diarrhoea.

We are seeing at least 20 cases a day. The increased consumption of outside food especially post lifting of covid restrictions especially when children have been attending classes indoors for the last two years, the increase in travel and consumption of outside water are the main reasons for children contracting diarrhoea."

Wash fruits and vegetables thoroughly before cooking to prevent chances of contracting diarrhoea

> "Another reason can be frequent travelling and eating outside, especially during the December holidays
> – Dr Yogesh Kumar Gupta, consultant-paediatrics, Fortis Hospital, Bannerghatta Road

Dr Rakshay Shetty, Head, Pediatric Intensive Care Services, Rainbow Children's Hospital, Marathahalli, also spoke on similar lines. He added that there has been a steady increase in children presenting with stomach pain, vomiting and loose motions. Many of them have fever and body pains. We found flu to be the reason in most cases."

Dr Yogesh Kumar Gupta, consultant-paediatrics, Fortis Hospital, Bannerghatta Road that a twofold rise in cases of diarrhoea and vomiting have been reported. Most of the cases are associated with high-grade fever, he explained.

"It could be a viral infection which is responsible for this as some children with the symptoms have watery diarrhoea associated with a cold and cough. We did see cases of dysentery recently. Another reason can be frequent travelling and eating outside, especially during the December holidays. The weather also has a role to play, especially in viral diarrhoea. Sudden fluctuations in temperatures may be a reason for the same. Most of the cases are managed in OPD with supportive treatment and ensuring adequate hydration. Few cases did require admission where dehydration was significant, the fever persisted or for patients who didn't respond to OPD treatment," he said.

In terms of treatment, Fluids (IV or oral) is used as the treatment in cases where there are concurrent symptoms like vomiting, abdominal pain and fever. This, along with antibiotics to kill the infection should have one feel better in around five days in most cases. Severe cases would need admission.

In terms of preventive measures, the doctors stressed upon the need of ensuring good hand hygiene, hydration and avoiding eating outside/ street food. Furthermore, drinking only boiled or bottled water is the safest. Eating well-cooked food and avoiding frozen food could also prevent diarrhoea.

In a first, Bengaluru to host 75th Army Day

The 75th Army Day will be held in Bengaluru for the first time on January 15. Sources said that this was part of Government of India's initiative to celebrate major events away from the National Capital Region to different parts of the country. Every year, 15 January is observed as "Army Day" to commemorate the occasion when General (later Field Marshal) KM Cariappa took over command of the Indian Army from General Sir Francis Roy Bucher, the last British Commander-in-Chief in 1949, thus becoming the first Indian Commander-in-Chief post Independence.

The Army Day Parade will commence with a wreath laying ceremony at the Madras Engineering Group War Memorial by the Chief of the Army Staff, General Manoj Pande, to pay homage to all army personnel who sacrificed their lives in the line of duty. The Chief of the Army Staff will then review the Army Day Parade at the MEG & Centre, Bengaluru Parade ground and award gallantry awards for individual acts of bravery and sacrifice. In addition, COAS Unit Citations will also be awarded to units for their exceptional performance under active operational circumstances.

The Army Day Parade this year will witness eight marching contingents, including a horse mounted contingent from the Army Service Corps and a military band comprising of five regimental brass bands. Each of these contingents represents regiments with glorious histories and unique traditions.

The Army Day Parade will be supported by a fly-past of Army Aviation Dhruv and Rudra helicopters. In addition, various weapon systems held in the Indian Army's inventory will be on display including K9 Vajra Self Propelled Guns, Pinaka Rockets, T-90 Tanks, BMP-2 Infantry Fighting Vehicle, Tunguska Air Defence System, 155mm Bofors Guns, Light Strike Vehicles, Swathi Radar and different assault bridges.

"We have invited people from all walks of life including students from schools (especially government schools), colleges, NCC candidates, children from orphanages to name a few. More than 8,000 local civilians have witnessed the parade during the pre-event displays thus far," said Major General Ravi Murugan.

A Bengalurean was recently hauled to the Adugodi police station for simply carrying pepper spray in their car. This comes amid several allegations recently that cops in the city have been wantonly harassing or extorting money from citizens.

The person took to social media and alleged that on January 8, while they were waiting in their car outside Nexus mall in Koramangala for a friend, a police officer from the Adugodi police station showed up and asked to check the vehicle. Later, he found pepper spray in the vehicle and said that it is illegal to carry it.

"I stated it was for self-defence just in case something happens while I am driving alone. He again stated it is illegal and told me that I should have kept it at home. He called another policeman from that very station was mentioning situations where people have misused pepper spray which is why people were not allowed to carry it. I also took a video of the incident," tweeted the user under the name of i_topg.

Later the person was taken to the police station and questioned. The user also had to give personal information to the police and was made to delete the video.

The incident came to light when it gained attention on social media. The case has been forwarded to ACP Madiwala and an internal enquiry is being conducted, said CK Baba, DCP southeast.

"The inspector of the Adugodi Police station got in touch with me on Tuesday morning. I explained the whole situation to him. He asked me to come and give a statement in the police station and that he will recommend disciplinary action against the concerned officers," the person told Bangalore Mirror.

School in spotlight after autistic boy fractures arm

FIR filed against management; school authorities allegedly refuse to show CCTV footage

The X-ray showed that the right hand was completely dislocated and the humerus was fractured in three places

An FIR has been filed against a special needs school in Whitefield for allegedly assaulting a 10-year-old non-verbal autistic child. Parents of the boy said that he had three fractures in his upper right arm.

Following a letter from the State Commissioner for Disabilities Act, the FIR was filed against the school at HAL Police Station on January 6. In the complaint, the parents have alleged that they received a call from the school stating he is unwell. Upon consulting with the doctor, the X-ray showed his arm was fractured.

"On December 19, my wife got a call from the school that my son was not being able to move his right hand. Upon questioning, the school said that he was experiencing muscular pain due to physical exercise. Immediately, we took him to Manipal Hospital to meet the orthopaedic surgeon and the X-ray revealed that the humerus has been fractured in three areas. The right hand is completely dislocated and the doctor said that the injury is the result of heavy impact, probably akin to sports injury," said the parent.

The parent tried reaching out to the school and learnt that during yoga exercise, the child allegedly pulled the trainer's hair and the trainer swatted away his hand.

The parents then demanded the CCTV footage and authorities allegedly told the parents that the video cannot be retrieved due to a technical glitch. "It's been nearly 21 days and they still haven't provided us with the CCTV footage," said the parent.

Fed up with the apathy, the parents approached Autism Spectrum of India (ASI) for help. A team of representatives from ASI visited the school but the management did not comply with any of their demands. Further, on December 30, the parents along with the ASI requested the State Commissioner for Disabilities Act, KS Lathakumari, to highlight the issue. The Commissioner then wrote to the DCP of Whitefield to take strict action against the school management on December 30.

Assistant Disability Commissioner, Muthurathnama, said, "We have written to the HAL police and requested them to take immediate action."

According to the parents, the doctors say that the two bones will have to be realigned using a wire. "We want the CCTV footage to find out if happened accidentally or not. My son is differently abled and now his upper arm is fractured. Previously, he was good at cycling and swimming but now, he is unable to do anything. Six months were lost to Covid and this injury will set him back by another six months," said the parent.

They added that they were willing to withdraw the FIR if the incident was proven to be completely accidental. When BM apprised Kishore Bharani, the Assistant Commissioner of Police, Marathahalli sub-division, he said that he would look into the progress of the case.

Another road bites dust

Anjanapura Layout locals irked by incomplete state of road; troubled by dust, traffic

Residents of Anjanapura Layout in Kanakapura Road have been living in dismal conditions since the road was not restored after construction work that was done months ago. This is not the first time that civic apathy and negligence have affected people residing in Bengaluru.

People in the area told Bangalore Mirror that they have approached the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) as well as the localMLA with their grievances. However, no action has reportedly been taken yet.

"The road opposite Nandi Garden was dug up for some construction work. More than half of the road has been left in a terrible condition and has not been re-laid even after months. The entire area is full of mud and stones, which is extremely dangerous for commuters. Unfortunately, none of the authorities are concerned," said Lakshman Karkal, a resident of the area.

Almost one kilometre of the road on Anjanapura main road has been left in a sorry state by the civic authorities. Despite several complaints and months of waiting, the residents continue to wait for resolution of their problems.

"We contacted the BBMP on Sunday, but there was no response, so we could not follow it up. We want to know what is the reason for work not being started here. The road has been left unattended despite it being a main road. There are several businesses, hotels, medical stores, and apartments in the area that are getting affected because of the poor infrastructure," Karkal further added.

> "More than half of the road (opposite Nandi Garden) has been left in a terrible condition and has not been re-laid even after months
> – Lakshman karkal resident

Due to the unfinished work, people have been struggling with dust in the area.

"Right from the morning, there is so much dust on the road and surrounding areas. It is very inconvenient for the people living here and it could be harmful as well. There are apartments here, and several families are living along with aged people and children who can be impacted by the dust. It is an extremely bad situation for a city like Bengaluru," another resident complained.

Traffic congestion is another issue that has been pestering the locals.

"This particular road is horrible as it was recently dug. It has not been tarred after the work and is not even motorable now. It is creating a lot of chaos and inconvenience for residents and commuters,"said Anand Yadwad, also a resident.

Dust is obviously an existing issue, but apart from that, traffic movement is also getting affected, he told BM. "Being a main road, there are many vehicles that go through here on a daily basis. The alternate road that is there is even worse and filled with potholes throughout,"he added. The residents have no other option but to use this to travel,"

BM tried to contact BBMP for a follow-up on the situation. However, they were unavailable for comment at the time.

Please clean up after your pets

City dwellers are upset over dog owners not cleaning up their pet's litter. They complain that dog owners continue to do this in parks as well, making it difficult for them to walk around.

Park-goers said that dog litter, if not cleaned, can cause infections and attract flies.

Rohit Srivastav, a resident of Dasarahalli, said, "Every evening, I go for walks in one of the parks near my area, and I see people coming with their dogs for walks as well. I do not have any problem with that, but several times dogs have littered right in my path and the owners did not even clean it up. They go away without thinking of the problems other people in the park will face." Jithin Raj, a resident of Hesarghatta Road, said he has seen dogs littering right outside his house several times. It is extremely unhygienic and attracts a lot of insects, he said.

People staying in gated communities have said that they face similar problems.

Latika Hurkar, a resident of Nagasandra, said, "I live in a gated community and go for walks in the evening. There are many open spaces and parks which have signboards asking people to clean up after their pet. However, they do not listen despite that. Just a few days ago, a dog littered on the footpath in front of me. When I asked the owner if he was cleaning it up, he said that he had forgotten to bring the scooper. The security person had to clean it up." Latika hurkat, a resident of Sarjapur, said that she is a dog lover, but does not support this kind of apathy.

People not cleaning up after their pets is a problem in her society as well, she added.

From parks to gated communities, pet litter seems to be a problem

> "Littering is unhygenic. No one should have to face the inconvenience it causes. I always carry plastic bags, scooper when I take my pet out
> – Arjun K, pet owner

Arjun K, a resident of Rajajinagar and a pet owner, said that it is extremely important to keep one's surroundings clean while taking dogs out for a walk.

"Littering is unhygienic and no one should have to face the inconvenience it causes. I always carry plastic bags and a scooper with me whenever I take my pet dog out for a walk so I can dispose of the waste in the correct place. Other pet owners should start following this too," he added.

Onlookers gather at spot of accident near HBR Layout

Tuesday's Metro pillar accident dealt a crushing blow to a family of twins. Vihan and Vismita, both aged 2.5 years, had recently enrolled in babysitting.

The accident cruelly cut short Vihan's life, while Vismita had a miraculous escape. The family members said that Tejaswini who lost her life after being crushed under a Metro pillar had started to go to office only recently.

Her father-in-law Vijay Kumar said that Tejaswini used to work as a software engineer at an MNC in Manyata Tech Park while his son Lohit was taking up civil works in Vijaynagar. After working from home (WFH) for a long time, Tejaswini was now working in the office. This was the reason why she had enrolled both her children (twins) to a babysitter. "Every day, my daughter-in-law would leave home by 10 am. She would drop kids at the school and then go to work. However, on Tuesday, she was late to work. I wish if she had left earlier, she could have been saved. My grandson Vihan left home with a smile telling me that he would come home soon but how were we to know he was never to return."

Tejaswini's sister Sushma said the family hails from Gadag. "While Lohit's family had settled down in Bengaluru around 10 years ago, Tejaswini's family had settled in Bengaluru around five to six years ago," she said.

An inconsolable mother-in-law of Tejaswini is rueing the moment when her daughter-in-law decided to go for work that day. She said, "I didn't want her to go into the office today and requested her to take the WFH option. She told me that she had very important meetings to attend to and she would instead work from home on Wednesday but destiny had something else in store for her and us."

Meanwhile, Vijay Kumar who alleged negligence on part of Metro authorities said he wonders what would have happened had the pillar had fallen on a bus. "The Metro works are going on at a busy road and no rules are followed properly."

> "I didn't want her to go into the office today and requested her to take the WFH option
> – Mother-in-law of Tejaswini

After the accident, the public soon rushed the woman and her son to a hospital. A doctor who treated them said, "When both the patients were brought in, Vihan and Tejaswini were bleeding profusely from the injuries on their heads. While Tejaswini was wearing a helmet, her children were not wearing any head protective gears. In fact, there were no life signs in Tejaswini when she was brought to the hospital while her son was struggling to survive. We tried to resuscitate Tejaswini for 15 minutes without any luck. We tried hard to save Vihan by resuscitating him for an hour but he could not survive. Tejaswini had a broken hand as well." He said that Tejaswini's daughter and husband's survival without any injury was miraculous. "There was no need to admit them to the hospital at all. As her mother and brother had died and her father was busy coordinating with doctors, the young girl who had survived the accident was being taken care of by hospital staff for a while," he said.

Pillar falls on family on bike; FIR lodged

In a shocking incident, a Metro pillar came crashing down, killing a woman and her son and injuring her husband and daughter, in Nagawara area on Tuesday.

According to Bheemashankar S Guled, Deputy Commissioner of Police, Bengaluru East, the incident took place at 10:45 am.

The woman was on a bike with her twins and husband when metro pillar number 218 on the Outer Ring Road (ORR) fell on them.

The deceased has been identified as Tejaswini and her 2-and-a-half-year-old son, Vihan. Her husband, Lohith and her other daughter, Vismita were also injured in the collapse.

"Tejaswini and her son were seriously injured, and died due to internal bleeding. They were rushed to the nearest hospital, Altius, by the passers-by. But due to serious injuries, they couldn't be saved. Her husband and daughter are injured and were in the hospital," said Guled.

Guled added that the case is being investigated and experts have been called to analyse the reason behind the collapse.

"A team of experts were called on the site to check and collect samples as well. After the team submits the report, it will come to light whose fault it was," he added.

Meanwhile, Lohith has filed an FIR with the Govindapura police station in Bengaluru East. It is expected that an FIR will also be registered against the contractor of the company that undertook the metro construction.

'No work zone management'

Parwez announced a compensation of Rs 20 lakh ex-gratia to the next of kin and assured complete coverage of treatment costs.

"The 18 m-high reinforcement bent from the top and fell on the family of four travelling on the road. here was no structural fault; we use the highest quality of steel for our construction and only procure from three reputed companies. The structure was prepared after detailed planning, and cannot be the cause of the collapse. One of the guy wires was cut; we will investigate it. We will be requesting researchers from IISc to investigate the matter at the earliest and file a report. Stern action will be taken against those held responsible," Parwez told the media.

As per BMRCL, the work was carried out under the supervision of engineers; the contract for the stretch was awarded to NCC Ltd. The contractor will conduct an internal investigation. "We will be stopping work for two days. The internal team will investigate the matter and suggest steps for improving our safety procedures," added Parwez.

> 'Proper work zone management plan can prevent accidents'

In 2020, a labourer at BMRCL work site died after a 16 mm cable pierced his head. In February 2020, metro workers died from falling to the ground. A 65-year-old man fell into a utility shaft and died on the spot due to lack of signage. "BMRCL should have studied the pros and cons and devised backup safety measures in case things go wrong," said traffic expert MN Sreehari.

According to Prasanna Kumar General secretary of HBR RWA some locals had reported seeing the reinforcement sway weeks ago and asked for it to be fixed. "We have been having a series of escalations with BMRCL 50 m from the accident spot. We feel that the accident today was the result of a lack of supervision by BMRCL," he said.

Experts pointed out that BMRCL should look at work zone management to prevent such accidents in future. "Every piece of infrastructure is being developed in isolation; its impact on adjacent infra is not being observed. Worldwide, they routinely create work zone management plans to assess the impact on adjacent infrastructure. Accidents can be avoided with a proper work zone management plan. All stakeholders including local communities should sign off on the plan. We are always responding to disasters after they take place. A proposal to prepare a work zone management plan was sent to BMRCL 10 years ago and to every sitting MD, but was ignored. Any Metro work area in Bengaluru looks like a war zone. No alternative for walking or vehicular movement has been planned in the metro construction area," mobility expert Ashwin Mahesh said.

Sankranti strings: Colourful yet deadly

Rescue centres in city educate school children about impacts of glass-coated manja on birds, request all to use cotton threads instead

If you are planning to fly kites this Sankranti, here is a plea from animal rescue centres in the city: Use the traditional cotton string instead of glass-coated Chinese manja.

After hundreds of birds getting gashed by the deadly strings year after year, these centres are leaving no stone unturned in educating the public about the harmful impacts of Chinese manja on birds and discouraging them from using it.

From organising awareness camps in schools to making children pledge against using the deadly string and identifying manja hotspots in the city, rescue centres are on their toes as the festival of kites approaches.

"We have been reaching out to a lot of schools with audio-video presentations and taking a pledge from the children that they will not use Chinese manja to fly kites," said Nawaz Shariff, chief veterinarian, PFA wildlife hospital.

"While we tell them to avoid kite flying altogether, we tell them to use cotton thread only in case they have to. Children also get a glimpse of our kite enclosure with birds that have sustained permanent wing damage," he added.

PFA will soon have a workshop for veterinarians wherein they will be trained in treating the birds with manja injuries. Between January and December 2022, the rescue centre at PFA received 268 cases of birds entangled in manja.

Avian and Reptile Rehabilitation Center (ARRC), yet another rescue centre in the city, has mapped manja hotspots to ensure faster rescues.

According to ARRC, Austin Town, Ulsoor, Shivaji Nagar, Frazer Town, SK Garden and surrounding areas are the city's hotspots when it comes to the number of birds getting entangled in manjas and sustaining injuries.

"Manja is a year-round problem and most of the cases that we receive are from the heart of the city," said Subiksha Venkatesh, rescue manager, ARRC.

"To address the root cause, we have been conducting manja awareness sessions at local schools and educating children, who are the primary users of manjas. We educate them about the dire consequences of using manjas and how it affects wildlife," he added. The centre received over 2,000 manja rescue cases in 2022.

Drop in manja rescue cases in 2022

Data compiled from multiple city-based rescue centres shows that there has been a 30% drop in manja cases in 2022 compared to 2021.

Experts say while there was a spike in the number of manja cases post the covid-19, induced lockdown in 2021, the cases started decreasing steadily later on and have now come down to pre lockdown range.

The Ministry of New & Renewable Energy (MNRE) launched the Rooftop Solar phase-2 programme in the year 2019 called the Soura Gruha Yojana. However, there was a delay from the Bangalore Electricity Supply Company Limited (BESCOM) to start off the project, now after a long wait the department has initiated the project with 1,529 applications received from the consumers.

The MNRE launched phase-II grid connected Rooftop Solar programme for achieving cumulative capacity of 40 gigawatts (GW) from Rooftop Solar projects by the year 2022 in India.

Out of 40 GW target for Rooftop Solar projects, 4000 megawatts (4 GW) is for grid connected Rooftop Solar projects in the residential sector with central financial assistance (CFA). The programme provides subsidies of 40% to 20%, and all residential category consumers, including residential apartments are eligible under the scheme.

According to Mahantesh Bilagi, Managing Director of BESCOM, for implementation of the programme, the MNRE has allocated state wise targets and BESCOM has been allocated a capacity of 10 MW for the year 2020- 21.

"Consumers have options to apply through either BESCOM portal or MNRE portal. As on December 30, a total of 1,529 numbers of applications are registered for a capacity of 5018.82 kilowatt (kW) in BESCOM in the portal and 303 applications are registered in MNRE portal for 1800.37 kW capacities," he said.

The number of empanelled vendors in BESCOM portal is 11, whereas in MNRE portal it is 22, he added.

There are various benefits that the consumers can get by adding rooftop solar.

"There can be a reduction in monthly electricity bills. The consumers can support the cause of green energy and generate their own energy. Further, they can earn money by selling excess energy to BESCOM and optimal utilisation of idle roofs," he explained.

The Centre launched the national portal for rooftop solar in July 2022 on solarrooftop.gov.in with 88,862 registrations and 36,425 applications have been received.

Bescom's programme provides subsidies of 40% to 20%, and all residential category consumers, including apartment complexes are eligible to get on board the scheme

"Initially, we were not getting vendors to implement the programme. Now we have the necessary vendors and the programme has been initiated. This will help many of the people which will help in reducing the usage and even the cost," said an official.

principles and his contribution to society. He was never in favour of violating norms in real as well as reel life. He was a role model for others.

"The podium has fully occupied the footpath thus compelling the pedestrians to walk on the road. The pedestrians have to be wary while walking at this junction," said Vishwanath Shetty, a resident of Vijayanagar.

Some miscreants vandalised the tribute to Vishnuvardhan back in December 2020 as there was a dispute over the selection of the location for installation. Subsequently, a large number of Vishnuvardhan fans staged a protest at Sri Balagangadharanatha Swamiji Circle demanding action against those responsible for vandalising Vishnuvardhan's bust.

"Minister for housing V Somanna has identified a place for the installation of an eight-foot high statue of Vishnuvardhan. The existing podium and the bust are a temporary arrangement. These would be shifted to another location after installing Vishnuvardhan's statue," said Veeraputra Sreenivas, president of Dr Vishnu Sena Samiti.

"I am very happy to come across Dr Vishnuvardhan's fans showing respect by installing his statues even after 13 years of his demise. It shows their love and affection towards Dr Vishnuvardhan. However, the selection of location and method of installation are very important. It would be a great tribute if people install statues as per Dr Vishnuvardhan's personality and principles," said Anirudh Jatkar, Vishnuvardhan's son-in-law.

Jatkar stated that the location where Dr Vishnuvardhan's bust is installed is in the middle of a footpath. He said it would cause inconvenience to the pedestrians.

"I demand that authorities, elected representatives find a suitable location for the installation of Dr Vishnuvardhan's bust in consultation with fans. I found the bust without an umbrella. It pains me to see Dr Vishnuvardhan's bust without an umbrella under scorching sun or in rain. I also want Dr Vishnuvardhan's fans to be involved in social welfare activities," said Jatkar.

Act against officials who enable encroachers: HC

The Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the Bengaluru Development Authority (BDA) to initiate action against seven officials of the department for allowing private companies to encroach on government properties in Kodigehalli and Kotihosahalli and build housing complexes on it.

The court directed the Commissioner of BDA to take appropriate action under department rules against the erring officers. It also ordered action against the tahsildar of Yelakhanka to remove the impingement within 15 days.

The matter was adjourned to February 2 by the division bench headed by Chief Justice PB Varale, which was hearing a public interest litigation filed by Ashwath Narayan, a resident of Kodigehalli.

Earlier, under the direction of the HC, the Bengaluru Urban Deputy Commissioner had conducted an inquiry and submitted a report to the court in a sealed envelope. The Tahsildar of Yelahanka had also submitted an affidavit regarding the encroachment.

Based on the report and the affidavit, the HC directed action to be initiated against the concerned officers. The advocate representing the property owners on the encroached land sought time as it would affect them. The court, however, directed him to take the grievance to the Tahsildar. PTI

Hundreds of senior citizens who had deposited money in bank that went bust gather for a condolence meet for fellow sufferers who died waiting for justice

TWEETS @BangaloreMIRROR

Hundreds of depositors of Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamitha on Tuesday organised a condolence meeting in memory of the depositors who passed away while waiting to get their money deposited in the bank.

It is said that around 43,000 people had deposited their hard-earned money in the Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamitha. Around 20,000 depositors got Rs 1 lakh each from the bank and around 10,000 depositors have received Rs 5 lakh each from the Deposit Insurance and Credit Guarantee Corporation (DICGC). These depositors were supposed to get Rs 5 lakh (principal amount plus interest) from the bank.

Now, there are around 10,000 people who deposited more than Rs 5 lakh in Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamitha. It is said that some of the depositors passed away even as they were desperately waiting to get their money back.

"We organised a condolence meeting. Some of the depositors, most of them senior citizens, passed away without getting their money from this cooperative bank. My wife and I have invested a huge amount in this bank. We got a portion of it. We are yet to receive a huge amount," said Harish V, general secretary, Shri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Sherudaarara Mattu Tevanidaara Hitharakshana Vedike.

Harish demanded the government announce a special package in the interest of depositors who are yet to get their money. "Let the government announce a special package to help the hapless depositors," he said.

Depositors gathered in front of the Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamitha

H G Achar, a retired private company employee, had deposited around Rs 40 lakh in Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamitha for five years expecting a decent interest amount. "My wife and I have invested Rs 40 lakh. Our deposit's maturity was March 2020 but the Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamitha became bankrupt in January 2020. It is three years but I am yet to get my money," said Achar.

He said the lucrative rate of interest made him invest all his earnings in the bank. "The rate of interest was 1.50 per cent more than the rate of interest offered by public sector banks. I expected to get extra interest but lost all my earnings. Now, I am finding it difficult to maintain a family. I need Rs 25,000 to Rs 30,000 per month," he said.

> My husband died worrying whether or not he would get the money. Now, I have to depend on my daughter for food
> –Varalakshmamma, a 70-year-old

Varalakshmamma, a 70-year-old widow, has a heart-wrenching story to narrate. Her husband, after retiring from a private company in Patna, invested around Rs 1 crore in Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamitha expecting a high rate of interest.

"The rumours on the financial condition of the bank had disturbed my husband. He used to visit the Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamitha to withdraw the deposited amount but in vain. He died worrying whether or not he would get the money. Now, I have to depend on my daughter for food," she said.

A depositor, on the condition of anonymity, demanded the government initiate punitive measures against those responsible for the misappropriation of deposits collected from the depositors.

How political parties must communicate

HC issues norms on how parties should issue directions to its members

The High Court of Karnataka has issued guidelines to political parties on how to communicate directions to its elected members.

Even after 35 years, the State has failed to frame rules under the Karnataka Local Authorities (Prohibition of Defection) Act, 1987. In a litigation involving elected members of the Town Municipal Council, Mahalingapura, the court deemed it fit to issue the guidelines till the State framed the necessary rules.

The guidelines issued by Justice NS Sanjay Gowda say a political party or the person authorised by it has to serve a copy of the direction to its members about acting in a particular manner at least 5 days before the meeting is convened. This holds good for Whip issued by the parties on voting in a particular manner.

The elected members of the party "would thus have the option of seeking permission to act contrary to the direction and thus not be subjected to disqualification under the Act," the guidelines say.

Another guideline is that no proceedings for disqualification shall be initiated against the elected members if the political party's direction is not communicated to the authority empowered to convene the meeting of the elected body.

A political party's direction should be communicated to the elected member by the empowered authority within 5 days preceding the meeting. If the notices are served in the same manner relating to the convening of the meeting, such service would be deemed service. Service of communication can be by courier or by email to the elected members giving them at least 5 days to seek for permission to vote contrary to the direction.

> No disqualification proceedings without communicating it to authority that convenes meetings

The guidelines were issued after a petition was filed by Savita, Chandini and Godavari, all members of the Mahalingapur Town Municipal Council from the BJP.

The elections for the post of president and vice-president of the council were held in November, 2020. Before this, a meeting of the elected councilors of the BJP was convened by the party soon after. At the meeting Snehal Shivanand Angadi was declared the official candidate for president and Laxmi Mahalingappa Muddapur was selected as the official vice-presidential candidate.The three members (petitioners in the case) were not present in the meeting and the party's direction to its elected members to vote for the official candidates was communicated to them by way of affixing the direction on the doors of their houses. PTI

Go First begins probe, offers free tickets

Go First on Tuesday said that it has initiated an inquiry into the incident where 55 passengers on its Bengaluru-Delhi flight were left on a passenger coach at Bengaluru airport on Monday even as aviation regulator DGCA held that the airline failed to comply with the relevant rules.

Moreover, the airline decided to offer all affected passengers one free ticket for travel on any domestic sector. "In line with our philosophy of customer centricity, the airline has decided to offer all affected passengers one free ticket for travel on any domestic sector in the next 12 months," said the airline in a statement.

"We sincerely apologize for the inconvenience caused to the passengers due to an inadvertent oversight in the reconciliation of flight G8 116, from Bengaluru to Delhi.The incident came to the notice of the DGCA, which said that as per regulations, the airline concerned is responsible to ensure adequate arrangement for ground handling, preparation of load and trim sheet, flight dispatch and passenger/cargo handling and also ensure that all the ground handling staff engaged in passenger handling undergo periodic soft skill training for sensitization, courtesy, behaviour and procedures for assisting the passengers. "However, in the instant case, multiple mistakes such as lack of proper communication, co-ordination, reconciliation, and confirmation have resulted in a highly avoidable situation and therefore, the DGCA has issued show cause notice to Accountable Manager/ Chief Operation Officer of M/s Go First as to why enforcement action should not be taken against them for dereliction of their regulatory obligations," said the DGCA adding that to follow the principles of natural justice, they have been given two weeks time to submit a reply, and based on that further action will be taken. IANS

Happy tune, happy baby

Why happy rather than sad music soothes newborns – new research

Music is the language of emotions, arousing and regulating our feelings. For example, research has shown that college students listen to music 37 per cent of the time, and it fills them with happiness, elation or nostalgia during 64 per cent of these sessions.

Children might have even greater exposure to music than adults do. Survey data shows that 54 per cent of teachers in South Korea use background music in schools. We also know music is played as often as 6.5 times per hour to help children's learning in US classrooms.

But how early do children develop a real appreciation for and understanding of music? Our recent study, published in Psychological Studies, suggests newborns may be rather musical, finding happy music soothing in particular.

This could be seen as surprising because, ultimately, culture plays a major role in when and how we understand music – it's something we learn. Preschoolers, for example, are often unable to pair pictures of happy or sad faces with happy or sad music. Such ability usually develops later in childhood.

It has long been unclear whether newborns and young children feel emotions in music. But we know that newborns respond to aspects of music, such as its beat, structure as well as consonance and dissonance.

Young infants also love "motherese", a very musical, melodic and slow type of speech that adults often adopt when talking to babies. Even those babies who can hear but were born to deaf parents (who don't speak to them in this way) pay attention to such speech or maternal-style singing.

Some research suggests even foetuses seem to respond to music. One study has shown that when pregnant women at the 28th week of gestation listen to their favourite songs, their foetuses' heartbeats increase, even though the mothers show no change in their heart rates.

Other studies, however, have failed to find any such reaction in foetuses. Music is often trialled to help prematurely born babies in neonatal intensive care units. But of the ten most rigorous studies with newborns in intensive care units, only half found any behavioural response to music, such as reduced crying, stress or pain. And only half of the studies found any effect on heart rates or blood pressure.

That said, very few studies have looked at how healthy, full-term newborns react to music. And no studies have examined how they respond to emotions in music.

> It is unclear whether newborns feel emotions in music, but we know they respond to aspects of music, such as its beat and structure

Happy is calming

Our team looked at how music affected healthy newborns, who were carried to term. First, we wanted to select a music piece that was really happy, and another that was really sad.

Two experimenters collected and listened to hundreds of lullabies and children's songs and selected 25 of these that sounded happy or sad. Only six of these were sung in English (Simple Simon, Humpty Dumpty, Hey Diddle Diddle, Little Miss Muffet, Ding Dong Bell, Little Bo Beep) while the others were in various other languages.

A total of 16 adult participants helped to rate the 25 songs for their emotional content. A French lullaby entitled Fais Dodo (by Alexandra Montano and Ruth Cunningham) was found to be the saddest, while a German song, Das singende Känguru (by Volker Rosin), was ranked the happiest.

We played these two songs in random order – along with a silent control period – to 32 babies in a first experiment. We also analysed how 20 behaviours, such as crying, yawning, sucking, sleeping and limb movements changed millisecond by millisecond during the music pieces and the silence, respectively.

In a second experiment, we recorded the heart rates of 66 newborn infants while they were listening to these two songs or silence.

Perhaps the most striking results was that babies started to downshift to sleep during happy music, but not to sad music or when there was no music. Also, they showed a decrease in their heart rates during happy music but not during sad music or silent periods, suggesting they were getting calmer.

In response to both happy and sad music, babies also moved their eyes less frequently and and there were longer pauses between their movements compared with the silence period. This might mean that both types of music had some calming effect on the babies compared with no music, but happy music was the best.

Our results suggests that newborns thus do react to emotions in music, and that responses to music are present at birth.

Earlier, we worked with foetuses and found that second and third trimester foetuses respond when their mum is talking. So listening to talking, singing and music may pre-shape babies' responses to music in the womb.

Traditionally, lullabies are sung by the caretakers, usually the mothers. Such singing is very personal and emotional. Mothers who come to our lab, often tell us that long forgotten lullabies they heard from their own mothers and grandmothers, suddenly come to their memory when singing to their own babies.

The mothers' emotions when singing likely shapes their babies' responses to music. Even with healthy babies, there is always a need for a soothing intervention as they cry on average for about two hours a day in the first weeks of life.

Soothing by music, played or sung, is widespread throughout the world and across times for a reason. Babies are born with an innate musicality and sensitively respond to music. And now we know that it is happy, animated and fast music that particularly resonates with their psychological and physical rhythms – enabling soothing, calming and sleeping.

All problems solved

Dear Coleen

I'm a woman in my early 60s and, my husband of 10 years passed away unexpectedly two months ago. Since then I've been having counselling to cope with the bereavement and, slowly, it seems to be working, although I know it's still early days. My dilemma is, my ex-partner contacted me to send his condolences and said he would like to meet up with me again, adding that he'd never stopped loving me. I'm fine with him admitting to that as I also thought of him from time to time, but I feel such guilt over it now that my husband has passed away. Do you think it would be wrong to meet up with my ex now the festive break is over and it's a new year? My husband always told me to find happiness, but the guilt I feel is unbearable.

COLEEN SAYS

Firstly, I think it's good you're having counselling and I think you should talk this through with your therapist, too.

Of course it's not wrong to want to move forward in your life and I'm sure it's what your husband would want, too, but make sure you are ready. It's been only two months since your husband passed away and your grief is still raw. Even if you feel strong today, next week you could be back to square one and really struggling. That's the thing about grief; it can catch you unawares and healing takes time.

There's nothing wrong with meeting your ex, but be careful of jumping into a relationship with him. If you do still have feelings for him, my advice is to take things very slowly. This friendship isn't going to magically make everything better and take away the pain of your loss, so think carefully about your expectations. You have nothing to feel guilty for, but the fact you're feeling tremendous guilt suggests to me you're not in the right place for a romantic relationship at this moment.

—Coleen Nolan, Daily Mirror

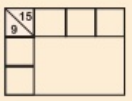
The numbers in the grey squares refer to the sums of the digits that you must fill into the empty spaces directly below or to the right of the grey square containing the number. For instance, in the given example, the 3 boxes horizontally next to 15 must contain 3 digits that add up to 15, whereas for 9, it is the 2 boxes placed vertically under it that must add up to 9. No zeros are used here, only the digits 1 through 9.



Note: A digit cannot appear more than once in any particular digit combination. For instance, in the example, we cannot have the combination of 4+7+4 for 15.

Rules

» Connect adjacent dots with vertical or horizontal lines, creating a single loop (Fig A). » Crossovers or branches are not allowed (As shown by dotted lines in Fig B). » Numbers in the puzzle indicate the number of lines that should surround it, while empty cells may be surrounded by any number of lines. » You can't draw lines around zeros. » Each puzzle has just one unique solution.

How to begin:

Example (Fig A) – Begin with the zero next to 3. Since no lines can be drawn around zero, mark crosses around it, as shown. Now there is a cross in one space around 3. So we know the three lines of 3 can only be drawn in the remaining three spaces. Next, these lines can only be extended in one direction each. Continue, using the same logic.

Hints: Keep eliminating possibilities by marking crosses in spaces between dots where a line isn't possible, i.e., if you have already completed required lines or where a line extension may create a branch or cause a dead-end (Fig B)

Yami Gautam reveals she would love to do biopic of her favourite Madhubala

Actress Yami Gautam Dhar envisions doing a biopic of the iconic and her "favourite" actress Madhubala.

When asked whose biopic she would like to do, Yami said: "The most beautiful one would be Madhubala ji. I know that there are some films being announced, but it's nothing to do with those announcements."

She added: "I have always said this in my makeup room, because I used to watch her songs at night. So at night, I have this habit till date, of watching either some old songs or some old interviews."

"It could be Madhubala ji's to Smita ji's interviews, and my God! How well-spoken they were. I wish again, one of those actors were still alive. There was so much more that was left to be seen and I wish she was here today, because she's one of my most favourite actors."

Meanwhile, on the work front, Yami has more power-packed performances lined up with projects like 'Chor Nikal Ke Bhaga', 'OMG2' and 'Dhoom Dham' among other unannounced projects.

Why Rooney Mara nearly quit acting

Actress Rooney Mara almost quit acting after filming the 'A Nightmare on Elm Street' reboot as she didn't have "the best experience" while filming the 2010 remake of Wes Craven's classic 1984 horror movie.

She said that she came close to walking away from Hollywood for good unless she found a project she really cared about, reports aceshowbiz.com.

"A few years before (The Girl With the Dragon Tattoo), I had done (A Nightmare on Elm Street) remake, which was not a good experience," she explained when speaking on the LaunchLeft podcast.

"(I have to) be careful with what I say and how I talk about it. It wasn't the best experience making it."

"I kind of got to this place, that I still live in, that I don't want to act unless I'm doing stuff that I feel like I have to do. After making that film, I kind of decided, 'OK, I'm just not going to act anymore unless it's something that I feel that way about'."

After finishing work on the horror remake, she landed a part in David Fincher's Facebook drama 'The Social Network' which took her career to a whole new level as the director later hired her to star in his next later project 'The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo.'

The movie was shot at Madhugiri and Bengaluru for 25 days. The Central Board of Film Certification has given it a UA certificate. "We expected a U certificate but got UA because of two scenes where the villain's followers get drunk before cutting trees in the forest," said Smile Shivu.

Shivu who acted in three Kannada movies – Veeraadhiveera, Bhootaayi Makkalu and Gayathri – makes his debut as a director with this film, and also bankrolled it under Bhumika Cine Creations banner.

The main star cast of this movie include Mysuru Ramanand, Smile Shivu, Shashidhar Kote, Rekha Das, Shankar Bhat, Meese Anjanappa, Kavitha, Shilpa, Nithya Dixit, Meena, Manju, Parisara Manju, Narayana Gowda Goverdhan Devilal and others.

Sankranti song

Sankranti is an important festival of Karnataka but there are not many songs on it. Now, Sharad Gumaste, who hails from Belagavi and lives in the USA, has released a song video on Sankranti under the Red Cedar banner. "I am happy to render the song – Sankranti Thaka Thai – in Kannada and Telugu along with Anoop Menon who has made a number of music albums. I live in London while Anoop Menon is in Dubai and Sharad Gumaste is from the USA. Sharad wanted to start making music albums by making a Kannada album as the inaugural album from the Red Cedar," said Lakshmi Hoysal.

Lakshmi said that she knows Anoop Menon. "I helped him learn how to pronounce Kannada and he did a fantastic job. His dedication and hard work deserve appreciation. His Kannada is flawless," she said.

The shooting of this video song was held in Karnataka and Hyderabad. "We both sang the Telugu version too. The producer agreed to make this video song in Telugu when choreographer Anee Master suggested it to him," she said.
